Reviews

Definitely one of the better publication I have got possibly read. It really is writter in basic phrases and not difficult to understand. You wont sense monotony at anytime of your respective time (that's what catalogs are for about if you request me).

The other side, and other poems. N.Y. Knopf, 1918. 74p. $1. A small volume of poems vital in their facing of the realism of war, their disgust with sham glorification, and with the coward soul, who is portrayed trying to enter too clean and unscathed into the Valhalla where crippled heroes stump about and rejoice at the well earned banquet. Also some love poems set into the background of war. 821 European War, 1914--Poetry 18-18774/3 Frothingham, Robert, ed. Songs of men. Bost. Houghton, 1918. 173p. $1.25. Like a sweep of clear wind, this anthology tempts one to break away from dull routine for the freedom of adventure and the great outdoors. The compiler says that it was not intended for the pale aesthetic brow, and there is certainly nothing pallid about it. One recognizes the virile touches of such workmen as Masfield, Kipling, Lindsay, Service, with many from less known poets. 821.08 Poetry--Collections Nature in poetry 18-22539/4 Graves, Robert. Fairies and fusiliers. N.Y. Knopf, 1918. 94p. $1. A book of short poems on many subjects. Its fusiliers are grim and its fairies are light and whimsical, but there is little exploiting, either of sentimentality or realism. Rather they keep the middle ground, not stirring one to the depths, and...
