Excerpt: .about South Africa ever since as a boy we read Livingston s unabridged diary of his travels. Of all the books on South Africa which we have seen, however, this of Mr. Kidds is the best illustrated and the most uniformly interesting from beginning to end. The author has attempted to give us the essential spirit of the Kafir, to show us his real self, as he believes, and thinks, and works, his laws, customs, superstitions, folklore, wars, and prospects. He has succeeded in his attempt. He has shown also that the Kafir is drifting along the surface of time in a rudderless bark, in the presence of mighty and restless forces, which the economic development of the country has liberated. He has shown him to be thriftless, wasteful, and prodigal; cruel, superstitious, and lustful; without God and without hope for time or for eternity....
